

ALERT: Proposed Revision of Export Licensing Requirements for China

Your export licensing requirements for export or re-export of goods and technology to China may change. Join this free WEBINAR with the Bureau of Industry and Security to better understand the proposed new rules.

September 14, 2006 * 1:15 pm - 2:00 pm EDT

Be prepared for changes ahead. U.S. Government officials will explain the proposed amendments and answer questions on the rules as published in the Federal Register, July 6, 2006.

Public Comment Closes Nov 3, 2006

Who should participate?

Companies, organizations and individuals with interest in understanding the United States proposed revised policy on dual-use items exported or re-exported to China.

Discussion Topics:

- Scope of proposed amendments
- Revision to the China licensing review policy for national security controlled items
- Understanding the proposed military end-use control
- New authorization for Validated End-Users
- New exporter requirements to obtain End-User certificates
- Open Question & Answer

Speaker:

Matthew S. Borman, Acting Assistant Secretary, responsible for implementing the Bureau of Industry and Security's controls on the export of dual-use items for national security, foreign policy, nonproliferation, and short supply reasons. More on Mr. Borman's background: <http://www.bis.doc.gov/about/MBormanBio.html>

REGISTER NOW

EVENT: Proposed Export Licensing Revisions for China

WHEN: September 14, 2006
1:15 – 2:00 pm EDT

REGISTER for webinar access info:
www.buyusa.gov/asianow/chinalicensingregs.html

INFO: Contact Kellie Holloway at
Kellie.holloway@mail.doc.gov
Tel. 503-326-3002

*Brought to you by the US Commercial Service
Export Control Specialists and:*

Participate from the convenience of your desk. A phone line and internet access are all that's needed. Access information will be sent to you upon registration.